We are proud of your accomplishments! You have done us proud giving our universities more authority so that we can successfully manage them. Despite the challenges posed by the Covid-19 Pandemic, several academic programmes were successfully completed in spite of the pandemic. Prof. Paul K. Wainaina who said health promotion is very important during Zero campaigns, she has championed health promotion with a goal of promoting health in tackling the challenges brought about by COVID-19. She also took the opportunity to inform participants how through her Beyond 50 Sub-Saharan African universities took part. The competition in Shenzhen, China, concluded on June 25 from over 2,000 universities in 85 countries across the globe this year. More than 15,000 participants from various universities from over 80 countries registered for the sixth edition of the ICT Competition. Kenyatta University students triumphed over 21 teams from around the world in the sixth edition of the ICT Competition. KU team won first place in the innovation track category. It was recognized for addressing the country's healthcare needs.

If the pandemic has taught us anything, it is that we are all connected. Work and productivity are essential ingredients for a better life. Whatever challenges we face, we must come together to face them. Prof. Benard Kivunge, the Vice-Chancellor of the National Ocean University of China, said the "wants to inspire a sense of unity".

If you're looking for ways to improve your academic performance, there are several strategies that can be effective. One of the most important strategies is to set clear goals. This will help you stay focused and motivated. It's also important to create a study schedule and make sure to take breaks when you need them. Additionally, you should make use of resources such as textbooks and online materials. It's also helpful to join a study group or find a study buddy to keep you accountable.

The University Council continues to work closely and in partnership with the Management Board, Teaching Staff, Graduates for another successful Graduation Ceremony and present to this Country a skilled polished workforce. The University's 51st Graduation Ceremony is scheduled for 11 November 2022.

Kenyatta University

Kenyatta University is the largest university in Kenya and one of the top five universities in Sub-Saharan Africa. The University is home to a diverse range of students and offers a wide variety of undergraduate and graduate programs. Kenyatta University is committed to providing a high-quality education and research experience for its students.

Kenyatta University offers a wide range of programs in fields such as engineering, business, law, medicine, agriculture, and more. The university is also known for its research programs, and many of its graduates go on to pursue careers in academia, government, and industry.

Kenyatta University is located in the Nairobi metropolitan area and is known for its beautiful campuses and facilities. The university has a large student body, and its various programs attract students from all over the world.

At Kenyatta University, students have the opportunity to engage in a variety of extracurricular activities, including sports, clubs, and volunteer work. The university also offers a wide range of resources to support students' learning and development, including counseling services, career services, and study abroad programs.

Kenyatta University is a member of the Association of African Universities (AAU), and it is also associated with the United Nations University. The university is committed to promoting international cooperation and collaboration, and it participates in various global initiatives and projects.

Kenyatta University is proud of its distinguished alumni, who include business leaders, politicians, educators, and cultural figures. The university is dedicated to providing a high-quality education and preparing its students to make a positive impact in their communities and the world.